

I am opposed to the use of cell phones during flights. While providing a means for people to connect to the internet might be desirable, allowing cell phone use will only invade the privacy of other passengers and make for a chaotic, noisy environment. While the plane is on the ground it's useful for brief calls to confirm plans, but please do not allow it when airborne. Thank you.